PREFACE

The Historical Records Survey, a nation-wide program inaugurated in January 1936 under the national directorship of Dr. Luther H. Evans, operates in each state of the United States and the District of Columbia under the administrative supervision of the Division of War Services, Work Projects Administration. For the purpose of this survey, New York City has been designated as the forty-ninth state. On March 1, 1940, Sargent B. Child became national director upon the appointment of Dr. Evans to the position as Chief of the Legislative Reference Service of the Library of Congress.

The objectives of the Survey, designed to foster preservation of and access to the Nation's wealth of historic documents and records, are being continued under Mr. Child. They include - in addition to the compilation of inventories of ecclesiastical records in the United States, the preparation of inventories of state, county, borough and municipal archives; transcriptions of early town or municipal records; guides to manuscript depositories and calendars of their major collections; check-lists of American imprints prior to 1871; and in New York City a compilation of Presidential papers, 1897-1937, and an index of Executive orders.

This Guide to Church Vital Statistics, Borough of the Bronx, is one of a series of five publications which include vital statistic records of churches previously inventoried by the Survey during the period 1939-41. These volumes complement the Guide to Public Vital Statistics Records published by the New York State Historical Records Survey which includes public vital statistics for New York City.

These records will be found to be of inestimable service to members of the community desiring to consult the records of vital statistics to supplement existing or incorrectly recorded records and to obtain documentary proof to support affidavits required to establish birth, age, marriage, or other records. Included in this guide are registers of adult baptisms and church members. These registers frequently include date and place of birth, and other useful data about individuals listed.

Preface

Every effort has been made to make this publication a useful guide to church vital statistics. To this end the guides are issued by borough instead of city-wide, and complete indexes have been compiled which will facilitate the locating of specific records. The street index may be used when the location of a church is known. Many churches in New York City have frequently changed locations because of population shifts and other reasons. These changes of address are not indicated in the entries. All former locations are included in the street index with references to the entries showing where the respective churches are now located. Further identification, if required, may be found in the Inventories of Church Archives of New York City, a list of which is given on the last page of this publication.

The Survey in New York City is presently under the technical supervision of Charles C. Fisher. The Church division of the Survey prepared this volume under the direction of Harry E. Greene, Supervisor, Church Unit.

Requests for copies of these publications or for information concerning the New York City Historical Records Survey should be addressed to Major Irving V. A. Huie, Administrator, Work Projects Administration for New York City.

INTRODUCTION

The greatly increased reference to official vital statistics records occasioned by the present war has emphasized the importance of the related auxiliary records of the churches and religious institutions. The most useful of these auxiliary records are the church registers of baptisms, marriages, and deaths.

In a letter of December 24, 1941, J. C. Capt, Director of the Bureau of the Census, states:

In the three weeks since the beginning of the war between the United States and Japan, there has been approximately a four-fold increase in demands upon State Bureaus of Vital Statistics for proof of the facts of birth. This increase has been in addition to an equivalent one in the preceding year. It has developed as a direct result of the demands for proof of citizenship for all employees of contractors and subcontractors of the War and Navy Departments. Also, proof of the facts of birth have been demanded by the Army, Navy and Marine Corps recruiting offices to establish age and citizenship of volunteers for the armed forces.

The material compiled by the Historical Records Survey Projects of the Work Projects Administration is extremely valuable for purposes of delayed registration of birth ... it is locating primary source material to meet this war-time need.

About 60,000,000 people in the United States cannot produce satisfactory proof of the facts of birth. The machinery for filing a belated record of the facts of birth, available in almost every State, is based on certain standards established in the "Manual of Uniform Procedure for the Delayed Registration of Birth." In meeting these standards, an individual must secure at least three pieces of evidence showing his age, parentage, and citizenship. Each piece of documentary evidence must be at least five years old.

The eighteen Guides to Public Vital Statistics, which have been published to the present time, have proved very valuable to State Bureaus of Vital Statistics in assisting the public in proving the facts of birth. The inventory of church records now being prepared for publication will be useful for similar purposes.

Introduction

It may be helpful to the user of this guide, to review briefly the interrelation of the vital statistics kept by the churches and by public officials. The earliest baptismal records of New York City are those begun in 1639 by the ministers of the Dutch Reformed Church in New Amsterdam. In nearly every case, they give the names of the child and the father, the maiden name of the mother, the names of the "getuygen" or witnesses, and the date of baptism.<sup>1</sup> A written rule for the keeping of baptismal records was not formulated until 1771 when the Rules of Ecclesiastical Government were formally adopted at the General Convention of the Reformed Church of New York and New Jersey. On October 15, 16, 1771, this body agreed that "The names of the baptized together with those of parents and witnesses, as well as the time of Baptism, shall be put on record."<sup>2</sup>

Marriage at New Amsterdam was governed by both the Civil and Ecclesiastical Law of the United Netherlands. The essential requisites of a marriage were as follows: All persons who desired to marry were to appear before the Court of Justice, or minister of the New Amsterdam Church, provided they had resided at New Amsterdam for a year and a day, and there request the publication of bans on three Sundays or market days, in the church, or a courthouse, or other place where the court is held, so that those who wished to raise any objection could do so in the meantime or forfeit their right to object. The New Amsterdam marriage records from 1639 on were also faithfully recorded by the Dutch clergy.<sup>3</sup>

Under the Laws of the Duke of York, published at Hempstead, Long Island, March 1, 1664, each town clerk and the minister of each parish were required "well and truly and plainly" to record all births, marriages, and burials occurring in each parish "in a Book to be provided by the Church--wardener for that purpose." A clerk or minister failing to report such matters within a month of their occurrence was subject to a fine of 5 shillings.<sup>4</sup>

This arrangement for the keeping of vital records remained in force up to the Revolutionary War. For seventy odd years thereafter, the recording of births, marriages, and burials in New York City was regulated by various State laws and city ordinances, some superseding, others amending or broadening earlier enactments.<sup>5</sup> The system of reporting births and deaths effected by State law on July 1, 1853, has continued, with slight modifications, to the present time. By this law, only the attending physicians are required to keep a register of deceased persons and the physicians and midwives assisting at births report monthly to the Metropolitan Board of Health (formerly the city inspector).<sup>6</sup> Additional provisions were added in 1866 requiring the parents or next of kin to report births to the board, and the next of kin or any person present to report deaths.<sup>7</sup> The recording of marriages<sup>8</sup> by the Board of Health was discontinued in 1937<sup>9</sup> since its marriage records were duplications of documents required by State law to be filed with the city clerk.<sup>10</sup>

In 1880 provisions were made for the registration of births of children of residents temporarily absent from the city when the birth occurred, for correcting erroneous entries in vital records, for registering the births which physicians and midwives had failed through negligence to register, and for supplying transcripts of vital records to parents, the next of kin, or to any authorized person.<sup>11</sup>

Since 1866 all births, marriages, and deaths have been recorded free.<sup>12</sup> The bureau of records of the Department of Health charges a fee for certified copies of marriage, birth, and death records to authorized individuals<sup>13</sup> and searches and certifies without fee to the department of welfare, to the child welfare service, or to any agency administering to the poor or to Veterans or their dependents.<sup>14</sup> Free searches and certificates are also offered for school entrance, employment certificates, for Federal relief, and to the United States Census Bureau.<sup>15</sup>

To have a correction made in the birth or death record of an individual on file in the Bureau of Records of the Department of Health, an application must be made to the Commissioner of Health on a form furnished by the Department. In the event of an error it is necessary to prove that the error was made at the time the certificate was originally prepared and filed.

Introduction

Every application to change or alter a birth or death certificate must be accompanied by a certified (photostatic) copy of the certificate to be changed or altered. Every application for change of a birth or death certificate must be accompanied by appropriate documentary evidence to support the fact alleged therein. Among the proofs acceptable as documentary evidence are a certificate of baptism or other religious record, a family bible, marriage certificate of the parents (where spelling of the family name is to be corrected), record of admission to a hospital as a child (if it shows date, name and age) or letter showing date of admission to first school attended (provided it shows date of birth).<sup>16</sup>

Preorganization Records

In a few entries, records have been listed antedating the organization dates of their respective churches. Congregations occasionally invited ministers to conduct services for them in private dwellings, and kept records of such services -- sometimes for several years prior to their official organization as churches. This is the explanation of the preorganization records in entries 7, 41, 138, 162, 191, and 229. The preorganization records in entries 35 and 260 are of worshipping bodies which merged to form the custodial bodies: in the first instance, the merging churches were the German Evangelical and the Zion-German Presbyterian; in the second instance, the Riverdale Talmud Torah and the Jewish Center of Kingsbridge merged to form the Kingsbridge Center of Israel. A third type of preorganization records, listed in entries 37, 90, 158, 169, and 186, are of chapels or missions which took their present names when organized into self-sustaining churches.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

Form of Entry

Caption: Includes entry number; popular or short title, followed by other (previous and variations) names in parentheses; organization date followed by date of demise, or two hyphens to indicate a living church; last or present address, and in Richmond and Queens name of locality.

Records: Unless otherwise stated records are located in church or adjacent buildings. A symbol (see list below) is used when records are located in a public depository. Unless specifically stated, records other than those included in the entry may be in existence. Since church records are not open to the general public, inquiries regarding them should be addressed to the custodian, who is usually the pastor of the church concerned. Most churches charge a small fee for transcripts.

Indexes

Figures used in the indexes refer to entry numbers. Where many entry numbers follow an item, the denomination can be determined by referring to the table on the first page of the index which gives inclusive numbers of each denomination.

Symbols

To designate public and semi-public depositories known to have original, transcribed, or printed vital statistics records of local churches, symbols approved by the Union Catalog are used as follows:
